KATHRYN MONSOUR

Who didn't love the beach in the 50's? It was our main form of entertainment. Even now as I watch all the shaggers prepare for a shag weekend, my heart has Deja-Vu!

I used to go to the Myrtle Beach Pavilion and watch the shaggers, most of who are now Hall of Famers, then to Spivey's, and etc. I was dating Eddie Monsour (now my husband) in those days, little did all of us know that time would stand still for 40 or 50 years. Hartsville, South Carolina was my home base, but the beach had most of my attention.

I am honored and flattered that Hall of Fame has chosen me as an Honorary Member of The Beach Legacy.
